

This is me preparing to repel off a training tower, which was approximately 60 feet. This was while taking the Alabama Fire College Rescue Technician: Rope

This is the location of the old Alabama Fire College, where I received training to become a firefighter in Alabama.

These two pictures are of me rescuing a gentleman and his long-haired miniature dachshund, using the training I received in the first picture.

This is the dog in the red bag on my left side.

This is me and Ursula Patterson
when I worked a
Critical Care
Driver for UAB's
Critical Care

Transport. Also, that was Dottie my sweet Dalmatian, that I had for 17 years.

Of course, This is one of the first pictures I took at UAB,
and as you can tell I am actually happy.

This is simply a picture of me with the Marine Corps Flag.

This is a unique story, a hummingbird got trapped in the fire apparatus bay and became weak. I could not stand it, so I went and mixed up some sugar water and hand fed it until it gained its strength back and was able to fly off.

This is a great example of making mistakes at a young age, because your family tells you what to think and that you are a boy when you know that you are a girl.

However, even those mistakes can become something beautiful.

These are just a few that show a progression, but even young you can kind of tell my feminine manners.
